Officers of Four Counties Team to Solve 22 Burglaries, Six of Them Committed Here

Officers of four counties teamed this week to solve a series of at least 22 burglaries, five of them in Hope and four in Prescott.

The burglaries were cleared up late last night in Texarkana after three suspects had been questioned at length. It all started three nights ago when a negro wearing a stolen Masonic ring was arrested at Texarkana.

Questioning of this suspect, listed as Willie James Collins, 19 of Maynard, Texas, led to three others. Before the final arrest officers of Bowie county, Texas, Miller, Homestead, Nevada and Arkansas State Police worked together tracing descriptions and nicknames all the way from Texarkana to Gurdun.

The second negro arrested was James C. Love 39, who was picked up at Texarkana and shortly before Leonard Brown, 40, Hope negro who has served two terms in prison, was jailed at Texarkana.

Working only with nicknames and descriptions local police brought in two suspects, one from Prescott and another from Gurdun, both being released after questioning. Finally Hope officers figured out that Brown was the man they wanted and he was picked up boarding a bus for Gurdun at Texarkana. He was identified only as a scar faced negro, and was the third man picked up with a scarred face.

Leads were traced all day Thursday and Friday by Sgt. J. H. Porterfield of the Arkansas State Police, Police Chief Clarence Baker of Hope, Deputy Sheriff Allen Shipp of Hope, Deputy Sheriff Horace Hale of Prescott and officers on the Texas and Arkansas side of Texarkana.

All the burglaries were classified as small and some loot was recovered including a gun stolen from Leo Hartsfield's service station in Hope.

Chief of Police Max Tackett of Texarkana, Arkansas, said at arrest of Brown cleared up at least 11 cases in Texarkana and possibly others.

Cases cleared up in Hope included: The Snack Shop, Pop's Driveway, Hamm Tire and Appliance Co., Leo Hartsfield's service station, Hempstead Motor Co., Jim and Eva's place, amounts ranging from $38 down.

In Prescott, Langley's Grocery, Loomis Implement Co., Stewart's Grocery, Negro Taxi Stand, amounts ranging from $5 down.

Sgt. Porterfield said one suspect admitted he participated in the burglary of Davis cafe and a Pontiac place on December 7, the latter losing $20.

The arrest of Collins and identification was kept quiet while officers searched for Brown, identified only by a scar on his face. Texas police made the arrest on the basis of a general description about the same time Hope officers came up with Brown's name.

All of the suspects are being held in custody in Miller county.

Funeral Services 2 p.m. Sunday For David E. Evans

Funeral services for David E. Evans, 74-year-old Hope man who died at his home Friday afternoon, will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Holy Grove with the Rev. Elbert O'Steen and Howard White officiating.

Mr. Evans is survived by his wife, two sons, Carl Evans of Texarkana, Cecil Evans of Shreveport and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Johnson of Hope, and a sister, Mrs. Ann Ames of Hendricks, Okla.

Active pallbearers: Jess Sinclair, Warren Pickard, Oscar O'Dell, R. D. Ellis, Erwin Crank and Jim Hobbs.

Wants Russia Told Off Firmly

Bauxite, Dec. 29 (AP) — Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.) thinks the West should tell Russia flatly:

"The free rides are over. If there is another invasion of the Western nations anywhere by a Soviet satellite, we are going to bring that conflict to Moscow. We're not going to fight it anywhere else."

Norrell, speaking here last at a Chamber of Commerce "Appreciation Night" in his honor, added: "I don't believe we'd have a war. I don't believe Russia wants a war. But, if we've got to spend American lives, let's not spend them on the hill and in the valley of Korea. Let's take the fight to the heart of the trouble-Russia."

The congressman noted that Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark., in his district, was one of four American airmen held in Hungary on a charge of violating that country's borders and freed only yesterday after the U.S. paid "fines" totaling $120,000.

"It took six or seven years in this country to convict one Alger Hiss for spying," said Norrell. "How long did it take the Russian satellite country to convict one Arkansas boy? About 10 minutes."

Girl Seriously Burned, Home Near Hope

Melba Evans, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Evans, was seriously burned yesterday afternoon at her home on Highway 67 near Waver's crossing.

Details could not be learned immediately. The young girl was staying with some more children and was playing with fireworks sparklers which apparently caught her clothing afire. Her parents were not at home at the time.

She was brought to a local hospital and attending physician, Dr. Judd Martindale, said she suffered about 60 degree burns and described her condition as "very serious."

Plasma and ATCH, a treatment for burns, were rushed to Hope from Texarkana last night.

Ford Accuses Wilson of Discrimination

Washington, Dec. 29 (UP) — The Ford Motor Co. accused mobilization authorities of "discrimination" against the automobile industry today, and warned that any further cutback in auto production would swell unemployment in the Detroit area to more than 200,000.

Ernest R. Brech, the company's executive vice president, fired the charge at the start of a meeting called by Defense Mobilization Charles E. Wilson to review the industry's unemployment crisis.

Heads of all big automakers, union leaders and both Michigan senators met with Wilson and his aides behind closed doors, but sound of angry voices were clearly audible in the corridor outside.

Brech angrily challenged statements of some mobilization officials that a quicker shift to defense production might have eased the unemployment picture for the auto industry. He said the government has ensnared manufacturers in so much red tape that the change-over program "borders on

Electric Power Produced From Atom Energy

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP) — Electric power has been produced from atomic energy by U. S. scientists for the first time, the Atomic Energy Commission said today.

The power—more than 100 kilowatts—was generated and used to operate pumps, reactor equipment, provide light and electrical facilities at the National Reactor Testing Station, Arco, Idaho.

A trial run Dec. 21 and 22, produced the power, the AEC said. The heat energy generated was removed from the reactor by a liquid metal at a temperature high enough to generate steam to drive a turbine, the AEC added.

The tests were carried on an experimental basis, the AEC said, because the breeder reactor can never generate large amounts of electrical power.

The AEC said the experiment was not intended to show that electrical power can be economically produced from nuclear sources. But the technical information gained by the experiment may be useful in the design of future reactors aimed at generating electricity at a competitive cost, the AEC said.

Four Die, 17 Hurt in Hotel Blaze

Kansas City, Dec. 29 (AP) — Four persons were killed and at least 17 were injured last night in a fire which swept through an apartment hotel here.

Killed were Francis Moralli, about 55; Mrs. Ellen Lewis, 38; Inez Brown, 3, and Laura Brown, 10 months. The children were sisters.

The manager of the building, Ralph L. Davis, said about 250 persons lived in the half-block long structure.

Fourteen companies of firemen worked more than two hours before they were able to bring the blaze sufficiently under control to begin a search of the building.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

The National Dish of Korea, Kimche, Is Pretty Rugged for the Ordinary Stomach

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Dec. 29 (AP) — What is Kimchee?

"This is the national dish—and what a dish it is — of Korea. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean in a letter to his wife broadcast this week by the Peiping Radio said that during his 15 months as a captive of the Reds he had become 'fond of rice and kimchee.'"

If this be true, the gallant general has shown as much stamina as a prisoner as he showed heroism on the field of battle. But Maj. Dean, who has accepted the broadcast letter as authentic, hardly knows what was in store for her when she announced she'd learn to cook kimchee for her Bill on his return—if that's what he really wants.

For kimchee pronounced "kimchee" is a concoction too rugged for the ordinary stomach of the Western world. It is part and parcel of the mysterious East. It is to the Korean what wine is to a Frenchman, spaghetti to an Italian or ham and eggs to an American.

Along with rice it is the staple item in his diet but only a race as enduring as the Koreans could survive it.

Only a Korean housewife can say for sure what kimchee actually is. But so far as it is possible of analysis it seems to be a kind of pickled vegetable hash, composed largely of cabbage, peppers and spices inundated in a mighty tide

Hope Schools to Resume Classes Wednesday, Jan. 2

Hope public schools will resume regular class work on Wednesday, January 2. Superintendent James H. Jones announced today.

Schools were dismissed Wednesday, December 19, for the Christmas holidays. All buses and classes will hold regular schedules, it was announced.

UN to Abandon Demand for Air Inspection

Munsan, Korea, Dec. 29 (AP) — The U. N. Allies today agreed to abandon their demand for aerial inspection and to negotiate the question of troop rotation — if the Reds accept completely a new compromise program for policing a Korean armistice.

"It is now clearly and unequivocally up to you. The future is in your hands," Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner told the Communists.

The Reds said they would study the U. N. proposal overnight and comment on it Sunday.

In an adjoining tent, the Communists agreed to account for at least part of the 50,000 men the Allies claim were captured in Korea but were not listed on the Reds' prisoner roster. Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, U. N. negotiator, said the Reds agreed to this "grinding ly."

Communist sub committment said they would swap information on the list of Red prisoners turned over by the U. N. Dec. 19. U. N. negotiators have hinted that if the Reds furnish a satisfactory accounting, they would consider an all-for-all prisoner exchange proposed by the Communists. This would clear the major hurdles blocking agreement on agenda item four — exchange of prisoners.

Subcommittees on both prisoner exchange and truce supervision scheduled meetings for 11 a. m. Sunday, 9 p. m. (EST) Sunday in Panmunjom.

Gen. Turner told the Reds the new six-point plan for policing a truce is the U. N. Command's final offer.

The plan provides that "such rotation of military personnel as within the limits agreed upon by both sides shall be reported to the military armistice commission."

It also proposes that "both sides undertake not to introduce into Korea any reinforcing military personnel, combat aircraft, armored vehicles, weapons and ammunition after the armistice is signed."

All previous United Nations proposals have said neither side should increase the numerical quantities of troops and equipment.

And Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang asked for an exact definition of the word "reinforcing."

Turner replied that the definition was in the record.

The U. N. negotiator declared emphatically that the compromise on aerial observation was on a "contingent basis" — that is, the Reds must accept all of the Allied proposal or none of it.

The new U. N. proposal incorporates the demand for a ban on military airfield construction in North Korea during an armistice.

Two U. S. Ships in Distress in Atlantic Storm

London, Dec. 29 (AP) — Howling hurricane winds washed mountainous seas over sinking ships along Europe's Atlantic Coast today and set off a series of frantic distress calls.

At least seven threatened vessels, including two American freighters, radiated SOS signals. One ship was driven aground. Others were taking water rapidly and in serious danger.

The 6,711-ton U. S. freighter Flying Enterprise, carrying 40 crew men and 10 passengers out of Hamburg, said she was listed 45 degrees and "taking water." She was wallowing off the southwest tip of England.

It was standing by the Flying Enterprise and was at hand or on the way to other threatened ships.

Winds as high as 80 miles an hour whipped up the worst Eastern Atlantic storm in many years.

Ports and airports closed in many places. Coastal towns from Spain to Denmark were battered.

Hundreds of small boats were sunk at anchor on the French and English coasts. Tidal floods hit river mouths all along the shore.

Most transatlantic air travel halted after the Shannon river washed over lowlying Shannon International Airport. Authorities said the field would be unusable until tomorrow or Monday.

The Queen Mary finally docked at Southampton 72 hours late. Its captain, Harry Grudge, said the trip was the worst he had made since 1914.

The Holland American liner Nordam stood by the Flying Enterprise part of the night. The New York Coast Guard said the Enterprise "has plenty of help if assistance can be carried out in heavy seas."

The southland, a freighter of the South American steamship line and a British freighter, the 4,000-ton Sherbrooke, also went to the aid of the flying Enterprise. The Nordam's captain decided adequate help was on hand and resumed his trip to Rotterdam.

The Flying Enterprise is owned by the Isbrandtsen Line of New York.

None of its rescuers indicated immediately whether they had been able to take off the crew and passengers.

Off Land's End in Southwest Britain the 4,300-ton Henry Stevenson from New York messaged for aid.

The high winds sent flood waters as high as four feet over some parts of England. Rail transport, too, was slowed by flood waters in Southern England.

Lang Is Not Sore for Getting Shot

Santa Monica, Dec. 29 (AP) — Actor's agent Jennings Lang says he is not "sore" at film producer Walter Wanger for shooting him.

"Life is too short to be sore at anyone," the 39-year-old agent declared yesterday in his first talk with newsmen since the shooting Dec. 11 in a Beverly Hills parking lot.

Propped up in bed at his home, Lang attributed to "hot-headedness and confusion" Wanger's statement after the shooting that he shot the agent "because he was breaking up my home."

While Lang talked freely about the gunplay, he was not allowed by his attorney, J.W. Jake Ehrlich, to discuss the possible motives. Lang, agent for Joan Bennett, Wanger's wife, recalled "two quick flashes of white fire" at the time of the shooting.

Later Lang discussed the case with Adolph Alexander, assistant chief deputy district attorney, and Ehrlich.

When he emerged from the session, Alexander told newsmen he "was convinced that the story Lang told was the truth." The district attorney representative declared he wasn't interested in a "romantic angle" in the agent's story.

Wanger, 57, at liberty on $5,000 bail, will appear in court for plea Jan. 7 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder.

Professor Reports 30-Years Work

Philadelphia, Dec. 29 (AP) — Dr. E. A. Spessard, head of the Biology Department at Hendrix College, Conway, Ark., reported on 30 years of research at the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

His prepared report shows that living plants can collect enough light particles to be weighed on laboratory scales.

Spessard said that when matter is changed into energy in an atomic explosion the energy weighs as much as the matter which produced it. Therefore, he believes that living plants take the energy to sunlight and change it into matter — of the same weight.

Spessard reported that he took tiny plants from pond scum and sealed them in an air-tight flask. One group of these plants, kept alive for more than 13 years, has gained weight. The biologist concludes that the gain could have come only from sunlight.

Patrolman Delivers a Baby

New Orleans, Dec. 29 (AP) — A husky cop delivered a 7-pound baby for another policeman's wife by following a doctor's instructions relayed from headquarters by telephone.

Patrolman Clarence Glarusso, who delivered the baby yesterday, told the story this way:

"Glarusso and three other squadmen answered an emergency call at the home of a policeman's friend, Patrolman Louis Fernandez."

"We got there just as Mrs. Fernandez said, 'Here comes my baby,' and faintly, 'I'll tell you the truth I didn't know what the hell to do and the other guys started running around like crazy.'"

"Sole (Patrolman Fred Soule) couldn't think of anything but putting water on the stove to boil like they do in the movies. He put four pans on four burners and then lit the oven and put another pan in there."

"Sedgbeer (patrolman Jay Sedgbeer) called for a crash truck — there weren't any police ambulances available at that minute — and finally got Mrs. Fernandez' doctor on the line through headquarters."

"The doctor was delivering a baby himself but gave Sedgbeer instructions and Sedgbeer relayed them to me. All the while Soule was trying to get those five pans of water to boil. When we asked the doctor what you are supposed to do with the water he said 'nothing.' Use alcohol."

Fulbright Takes Poke at Foreign Policy

Fayetteville, Dec. 29 (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) frequently at odds with the White House, has taken another swipe at the United States' foreign policy.

In fact, said Fulbright, "the United States has no effective or affirmative foreign policy" to cope with the propaganda being spread by communism.

Senator Fulbright spoke to about 300 fellow Arkansians who gathered here last night to hear the former president of the University of Arkansas.

The gathering was a homecoming dinner for Fulbright, a homecoming dinner for Fulbright, a homecoming dinner for Fulbright.

"I think it's fair to say we haven't had a foreign policy. I don't think you can call opportunity a policy. When a problem comes up we just write a check; we don't wait to think about it."

Fulbright charged that the foreign policy makers of this nation have submitted dollars "for sense" in dealings with other countries.

"We called for a long range program of exchanging ideas and an effective propaganda program to meet that of Communist Russia."

Fulbright said he doubted if there would be "an all out shooting war" because Russia "has achieved success in her limited cold war."

He referred to the increasing influence Russia "is obtaining" in Europe and the Far East.

Fulbright touched briefly on the charges of corruption in government. He cited investigations a Senate subcommittee he headed made of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the government's big lending agency.

A goldfish put alone in a bowl will become so lonely and frustrated as to actually wind up a "mental case."

Secrecy Shrouds Story Awaiting Top Official

Erlding, Germany, Dec. 29 (AP) — Four American airmen, freed or 40 days in a Communist-aid State and Defense Department investigators today, a story which might lead to a United States' atomic break with Hungary.

Refreshed after a night's sleep, the four air force fliers, under questioning for hours behind guarded doors by teams of U. S. States Army, Air Force and State Department experts on Iron Curtain countries.

So important was their story, guarded that a press conference was postponed indefinitely to await the arrival of a State Department official from Washington, especially from Washington to take charge.

It was disclosed that the State Department official, identified only as "Mr. Klaus," landed at Rhein-Main airport from Washington shortly before 4 p. m. (10 a. m. EST).

The official was identified as "S. Klaus," but the State Department in Washington said he is Samuel Klaus, an expert who has handled the legal work in food charges of violation of human rights against Soviet satellite countries.

The State Department said Klaus was rushed to Germany to get the fliers' story "while it was fresh" and denied that he would try to censor their story to press.

The questioning of the four fliers started at 8 a. m. (2 a. m. EST) and was still going on at 10 p. m. (10 a. m. EST).

A press conference had been for 3 p. m. Nearly an hour after that time, Col. Park Holland, commanding the Erlding Air Base, announced "with deep regret" the conference must be postponed until Klaus arrived to take charge. Klaus, he said, must give authority for the fliers to tell their story to their fellow Americans and the world. He said he hoped they could talk something that even the fliers are not sure they can tell.

The fliers are Capt. David Henderson, of Shawnee, Okla.; Capt. John J. Galt, of Glendon, N. Y.; 2nd Lt. James A. Spinks, of Washington, D. C.; and 1st Lt. James A. Spinks, of Washington, D. C.

They had been captured on a base on Nov. 10 on a transport to Belgrade Yugoslavia. The plane strayed over the border of Hungary. Soviet Russian fighter planes based in that area country forced it down. The were held incommunicado their "deportation" yesterday.

This "deportation" took place after the United States paid $600 in fines imposed on them a Hungarian military court.

The airmen appeared today and free from some of the strain they showed on their last night.

During the luncheon interview the questioning was so intense that Captain Swift was asked today to see his father, who seriously ill in Syracuse.

The airmen were driven to Vienna, whence they were their home air base here in a joyous reunion with their wives and friends.

About a dozen State Department and Air Force intelligence men were assigned to question them. They especially wanted to know details of the airmen's life and their attitude toward the Soviet Union.

More than 2,000 other American airmen assigned to this area and their families welcomed them on their arrival in Vienna last night according to C-47.

Col. Holland greeted them first off the plane, and cheer.

"My God, we're glad to see you back," Holland said.

"We're very glad to be here believe me," Henderson said. Then the captain stepped into the arms of his wife. They hugged for a while. They hugged for a while. They hugged for a while.

DOROTHY DIX

Keep Standards High

Dear Miss Dix: I have a boy friend with an inferiority complex. I am an officer in various social clubs, and an "A" student while he is not active in any of our school groups, and is a "C" student. I am very popular. When we are together he acts bashful. I think this is because I out shine him. He has been avoiding me lately and I wonder if I should keep up my good work or get down to his level so he will be interested in me again.

Answer: While your friend may indeed be abashed at the superiority you display in school, I detect another reason for his avoidance. Could it be that you are a trifle too boastful over your achievements? Perhaps even to the exclusion of other subjects? As a bright and popular girl you will have to watch this tendency or you'll drive all boys away.

You have been endowed by your Creator with a better-than-average brain and personality. To do anything but make the most of these gifts would be a crime against nature, so give up all ideas of deliberately letting your work lapse to lower grades. Such practice will certainly not enhance you in the eyes of your schoolmates — male or female. You owe it to yourself, your teachers, your family to make the most of your talents and get the highest grades possible.

Give Him Encouragement
If you really want to interest one particular boy, give him the center of the stage when you're together. Even though you're just dying to discuss your latest honorary post, let him have a lion's share of the conversational limelight. His achievements may not be as glamorous as yours, but to him they are mighty important. A little encouragement, properly meted out, may even spur him on to better marks and more active participation in school affairs. Such procedure will shed much more credit on you than a passive attempt to lower your marks.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 27 years old and engaged to a boy of 25 who is away at college. Since he has been away I have met a nice young man 27, who is also engaged. He travels and every time he is in town I go out with him. Nothing has been said between us as to our feelings for each other; we have kept on a strictly friendly basis but I am very disturbed to find myself looking forward to seeing him. I know I love my fiance; would you advise me to stop seeing the other man?

M. I. T.
Answer: You are playing with fire and are bound to be badly burned unless you straighten out a bad situation. If you are really in love with your fiance, the honorable thing to do is stop seeing this other man; you are being unfair to your own betrothed, as well as his. If, however, a thorough analysis of your emotions indicate that he has wound himself more strings than you think, break your thoroughly around your heart engagement. Don't marry one man while your mind is dwelling on another.

Little Rock, Dec. 28 (AP) — A Perry county airman, home on Christmas, forlornly died in a Little Rock hospital early today of injuries suffered in a traffic mishap near here yesterday.

Dear Miss Dix: A young man who works under my husband has bought a house nextdoor to us. We don't know the family too well. What effect will such close association have on business relations? I would like to make real friends of these people, since they will be nextdoor neighbors. How can I do this?

RHODA
Answer: Men usually learn more thoroughly than women how to separate business and social associations, so I think your husband and new neighbor will have no difficulty in maintaining both relationships. You are very gracious in your desire to be a good neighbor. Be cordial to the newcomers, as helpful as you can, treat their children and animals with courtesy and above all, don't be intrusive. And don't, please, ask questions or tell stories about business.

Christmas Eve

Dallas, Tex. Dec. 28 (AP) — Hospital authorities said today that more than human resources might be needed to bring about the recovery of 4-year-old Tommie Yates who was beaten into unconsciousness on Christmas Eve at his Vernon, Tex., home.

In Vernon his mother and step-father who have been charged with assault with intent to murder in the beating, have been moved to an undisclosed jail. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale Simpson.

Attendants at Baylor Hospital here said the frail boy still had not come out of his semi-conscious state.

"We've had calls from lots of Dallas people offering blood or who want to visit him," a hospital official said.

"But there's not much anyone can do to help him now except maybe they can pray."

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pagler
Copyright, 1951
By King Features Syndicate.

London — "And this" said Sir Willoughby Wallable O. B. E., M. P., for Piddlington Dorts, "one of the most interesting exhibits in the whole billy show. Baby gone worn by Charles the Second. I dare say you have nothing in the States to compare with this. Pity, rather, isn't it?"

"Well one baby spent gets you fifty squid we do, Lord," said George Spelvin American. "I don't know where you Englishmen got your crazy ideas about the United States."

Sir Willoughby Wallable was conducting Mr. Spelvin on a tour of Windsor castle. They had paused before a glass case.

"I guess you have never been up to Hyde Park," Mr. Spelvin said.

"Oh, rather," Sir Willoughby said. "Thousand of times, Mr. Arch Hyde Park corner."

"Oh I don't mean the English Hyde Park," Mr. Spelvin said. "I mean our Hyde Park on the Hudson. You talk about baby shoes. The statistics prove that in the fiscal year 1949 there were 14,326 gross of original P. D. Roosevelt baby shoes and the figure has been going steadily up ever since. All autographed, too. I notice these Charles the Two baby shoes aren't autographed."

"Oh, but you surely are pulling my leg," Sir Willoughby said. "How could a baby autograph his own shoes?"

"What do you mean I am pulling your leg?" Mr. Spelvin asked. "You English certainly have got some crazy expressions. They get my goat."

"Goat?" Sir Willoughby said. "Is that an American expression?"

"I must remember to tell my pals at the club. I was talking to an American chap. I shall say, and he said we British had some extraordinary expressions and then he said: 'It certainly gives me the goat!'"

"Tell me, Spelvin, what does it mean to say that one gives one the goat?"

"It means you forbid on the premises unless you want to moderate the partibord," Mr. Spelvin said. "In that case you pity the emigrants and it comes out even."

"Now," Sir Willoughby exclaimed joyfully, "say, you rather did give me the goat?"

"Okay, okay," said George Spelvin American.

"But about those autographed baby shoes," Sir Willoughby persisted. "Who autographed them?"

"Oh, I don't know," Mr. Spelvin said. "It is probably a trade secret. But it is a wonderful pitch Hyde Park. Post cards, pennants, rare old stamps, fresh everyday. Autographed pictures and letters. I read where a guy invented a machine that turns out 10,000 Roosevelt autographs an hour. Rooms for transients. Couples must have at least one suit case. Locks of hair. Locks of P. D.'s hair. Birds' nests. Great man's birds' egg collection. They say there hasn't been a song-bird hatched within 30 miles since spring 1946. Kids grab the nests while the eggs are still warm. Up to $50 for an ordinary bird's nest from P. D.'s boyhood collection. Up to $10 for a sparrow's egg. Best grand in the carnival racket."

"But," Sir Willoughby Wallable asked, "who operates this commerce?"

"Oh corporations I guess," Mr. Spelvin said. "Taxpayers support the shrine but the grunts are private like Coney Island. You can get P. D. R. tattooed on your arm for $5. Get his picture on your chest for $50."

"Well, of course, I don't want to criticize your quaint folkways but isn't all that a little on the vulgar side?" Sir Willoughby Wallable said.

"Could be, Lord," Mr. Spelvin said. "But this joint needs new racks. All over the world everybody has been hearing about Windsor castle since the olden days. But you can't buy a hot dog in the town down there. No post-cards. Now, for instance, where is the queen today?"

"Oh I dare say her majesty is in the private apartments," just there," indicating "just there" with a gesture.

"You mean she is in this building all this time?" Sir Willoughby said.

"Well, of course," Sir Willoughby said. "It is their home. One of their homes."

Mr. Spelvin slumped down in a deep plush chair.

"Oh I say, please," Sir Willoughby begged in a berated tone. "That is Victoria's chair. You mustn't."

Mr. Spelvin arose weakly.

"Now listen highest," he said earnestly. "If you are ever going to bail your country out of debt, you have got to turn the crank. Why it this was Hyde Park and the old girl heard there was two customer in the museum she said: 'Come down here spending the regular nothing like that, have you?' Day grand. The two and three mount up in the greatest pitchman since Barnum. Didn't Charles the Second have any birds' nests? No autographed stamps? Couldn't you go into production on those baby shoes? Couldn't the queen just sort of wander through the joint? Hasn't she got a television program? brother what Elliott would do with Victoria's chair."

"I am afraid that would never do," Sir Willoughby said. "Out of the question. Quite. You see, you have no such traditions. For example there was Charles the First,

Ted Williams Wins 1951 Bat Title

Chicago, Dec. 29 (AP) — Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox maintained his habit of winning American League slugging honors by taking the 1951 title with .350.

The percentage, based on 531 times at bat and 29 total bases, was far under Williams' 1950 figure of .417.

Cleveland's Larry Doby was second in the slugging department with .312. Gus Zernial of Philadelphia and Detroit's Vic Wertz showed third with .311 each.

Official league statistics released today certified Zernial as runner-batted-in champion with 12 9/10 143 games. It was the first time in three years that an undisputed RBI champ was crowned in the A. L.

Williams and Vern Stephens split the honor in 1949 with 159, and in 1950 the RBI race ended with 144 deadlock between Stephens and his Boston teammate, Walt Drennon. Zernial, who also was first in home run production with 133, was followed on the 1951 RBI list by Williams with 126, Chicago's Eddie Robinson with 117, Cleveland's Luke Easter with 103 and Al Rosen, also of Cleveland, with 102.

Only five players drove in 100 or more runs during 1951 while 11 did it in 1950.

Williams drew the most walks, 143, while Zernial repeated as the No. 1 strikeout victim, being whiffed 101 times.

The dubious record of grounding into the most double plays was shared at 22 by Washington's Sam Rice and Boston's Stephens.

Boston drew the most walks as a team, 756, drove in the most runs, 757, and grounded into the most double plays, 189. Players for the St. Louis Browns fanned the most times 693.

West Slightly Favored to Take East

San Francisco, Dec. 29 (AP) — One of football's greatest and most worthy spectacles the Shrine East-West charity game was being unfolded today in Kezar Stadium. Interim rain was forecast.

The 29th annual classic played for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Hospital brought together college seniors from many sections of the country. The kickoff was set for 1:30 PST (3:30 CST) with millions watching on a national television hook-up.

All American names and other football greats filled the line-up. The array of talent was the most imposing ever assembled for this contest, which will net upwards of $100,000 for the rehabilitation of crippled children.

Since the game was established in 1925 more than one million dollars has been turned over to the hospital fund.

The West, with giant linemen and heavier and faster backs, took the field favored over the East by 6 1/2 points. The Easterners snorted at the odds. Recent rains had softened the turf.

A slow or muddy field figured to favor the East's powerful single wing attack and possibly handicap the West's precision-speed T formation.

Whether all of the stadium's 60,000 seats were filled or not, the game was an assured sell-out. The Shrine committee announced last August that all tickets had been sold.

Lineman's two time All-American Dick Kazmaier posed the East's chief threat, operating from the linebacker spot. Ohio State's all-around fullback star, Vic Janowicz, figured strongly in the Eastern scoring plans. Such All-American tackles as Don Coleman, Michigan State and Bob Tonnell, Notre Dame, were up front.

Western hopes were pinned on the fleet feet of such All-American backs as Hugh McElhenny, Washington, and Ollie Matson, San Francisco. Drake's John Bright and Southern California's Frank Gifford, great in their own right, added power to the Western offense.

The West line was bolstered by Jim Westcott, Oklahoma tackle and Lee Richter, California guard, both two time stars.

Tonnell was the heaviest easterner at 265 pounds, a weight equaled by the West's Weatherall and Jim Clark, guard, and exceeded by Hermand Clark, 265 pound tackle. The Clarks are brothers and attended Oregon State.

Then Charles the Second, then Charles the Third. You have nothing like that, have you?" "That is just the hell it is, your grace," Mr. Spelvin said. "We have already had Roosevelt the One and the Two and it is no dead much we won't get the three. People are scared."

"Have you seen this?" Sir Willoughby asked. "This is the lace collar Charles the Second wore when he was beheaded. I daresay you haven't anything like that now have you? Come now — have you?"

Mr. Spelvin shook his head. He seemed a little sad.

"Nope," said George Spelvin, American. "We certainly lost one there."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York Dec. 29 (AP) — Monte Irvin, who received a 100 per cent salary increase subject to Wa g e Stabilization Board approval when he signed his 1952 contract with the Giants, figures he was ready to play major league baseball as soon as he got out of high school. It didn't even sound like boasting when Monte, wearing a flashy sport jacket and looking quite at home in Horace Stoneham's bright office, said he could have stuck in the big leagues a dozen years ago. "I could run, hit and throw better then," Irvin said. "I wasn't as smart or experienced as I am now, but I didn't have to be then, I did things naturally." Monte also thinks he came out better than some of his Negro teammates of 1939, Satch Paige, Willie Wells and Ray Dandridge. They were good enough to be big leaguers, too but when the chance came they were too old. Monte an all-around athlete in his school days, isn't going to aim at Al Dark's title as the best Giant golfer when he starts a gliding vacation in the next few days. "I'm not a good player," he grinned after a question. "I only drive a golf ball."

Of 15 players on the U. of San Francisco soccer team which plays Temple tomorrow in the St. Louis "Soccer Bowl," five are Latin-Americans and one comes from Spain. No wonder they're called the "Dons." Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick and Hugh Egan, U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce sports director, ignored Chicago's minus-ten temperatures during their recent conference on the Jaycees' boys baseball program. And why not, with all that hot stove material to work on?

post-season training camp when he got a wire that he was out as New Orleans manager.

Gil Turner Was Anything But Polished

By JACK HAND

New York, Dec. 29 (AP) — The jury is still out on Gil Turner, boxing's "rookie of the year" for 1951. Unbeaten Gil won decisively from Vic Cardell of Hartford, Conn. last night at Madison Square Garden in his New York and television debut. But he was far from a polished, finished workman in his 27th straight victory.

Although George Katz, his manager, talks about a welter title shot with Kid Gavilan, the 21-year-old boxer who beat Gavilan last night, Turner was not ready for Kid Gavilan.

Extra anxious to make a sensational showing for the network TV fans and the 4851 customers paying $15.206, Turner walked into too many punches. Even when he was blinding Cardell with the speed and fury of his frequent flurries, he was getting nailed with "sucker" rights.

Let there be no mistake about the fight. Turner won from here to there, 9-1 on this scoreboard. Judge Herold Barnes also saw it 9-1. Judge Charley Shortell had it 8-2 and Referee Harry Kessler 7-1 with two even.

Turner, who weighed 145 3/4 to Cardell's 148, poured leather in Vic most of the night. He fought with headlong furies that started with a Gavilan-type war dance. Cardell, as good as they come, fought back and shook up the kid with a series of lunging rights in the third. Although Vic was on the strike in Pittsburgh a few years ago, received a little consideration from the Pirates this year that he was still willing to hear from Branch Rickey about the heavy fire.

opening of the morning show at the Radio City Music Hall. This was a regular relaxation for him. The week, which was always full with its sick calls and its meetings and its plans for his talks and sermons, together with his own private work on astronomy, this busy week always reached its climax in the Sunday morning service. But he was tired until the Youth Group had disbanded in the evening. Then, the next day, feeling drawn into a knot in him, he made for a New York and, for a few hours, all his duties and responsibilities and nagging uncertainties slipped from him. What gave him physical and spiritual restoration was the vast dark quiet, the soft magic of the changing lights, the miraculous stage effects, and the magnificent organ music.

Presently he was inside and moving toward the area where he most enjoyed sitting. The organ was already playing. He sank down, at once lost in a happy solitude and unmindful of the restrained jostling and pushing of the figures, mostly women and children, who were crowding around and past him.

His Christmas sermon was on his mind, a nebulous shape so far, but it would come to him. There was so much to be said in these stirring times. What he would like to do would be to speak of the Seven Stars that, forming a Crown, always shine most brightly each December on the night of Jesus' birth in the barn above the land where the Christian faith was born. There was a meaning to that. It was, he felt, a quick brilliant smile to the man who, until that moment unnoticed by most of them, rose and moved forward with his shy half-smile.

"I'll do my best, sir."

At the sound of his melodious voice there was a flurry in the fifth row. A girl rose and, with her coat over her arm, began pushing her way out. Donald looked at her in uncertainty. Barth, sunk in an alert quiet, held himself still in an alert quiet. Sam waited. Constance stepped quickly from the back of the room and met her in the aisle before the big back door. In the silence her low question and Cynthia Randall's answer were plainly audible.

"Is there anything the matter, my dear?"

"I just don't care to remain here, that's all."

She snatched open the back door and marched out. No one followed. Sam began to speak, telling them of Army life.

On the Monday before Christmas, Barth stood in line for the

Baylor, Tech End Practice

Miami, Fla., Dec. 29 (AP) — Baylor's Bears and Georgia Tech Engineers planned to wind up heavy preparations today for their New Year Day clash in the Orange Bowl.

The Bears labored through morning and afternoon workouts yesterday, their first since arriving in Florida. Coach George Sauer said he was pleased with the team's hustle and thought the players were in the right mood for the game.
